Petals of a world and a time,
these todays,
are ours and are all that remain of tomorrows.
Todays that remind us that the depth and width of this world can be found in the symmetry and silence of shadows upon the snow,
the reflections on an evening stream.

This world and these times,
which pass through our hands and before our eyes,
and remind us to hope,
to place April-nests in bare limbs of sleeping trees,
to look beyond here and I,
and to see.

The city . . .
sepulchre and circus . . .
neon machine of people and things . . .
gray buildings and streets . . .
the sad symmetry of an old man's face . . .
the eternal welcome of the statue.

Signs of the city mumble
"salvation inside" . . .
while the people and the days pass before silent windows . . .
and the broken-glass stares of an alleyway rain.

But while this part of the city crumbles back into itself and fades . . .
they are pushing up a new part, and as the steel knits and the cement takes root, the city grows.

And yet as it grows, there are dreams in the alleyway ruins of places ungray and away from here . . .
of green grass and the rising of the moon.

For some, the University is a last defense, the last stop before facing reality . . . that absurd guise of the world. For others, it is a last place to look for something to respect and believe in.

Here there are those who seek anonymity in a number . . . and those who seek themselves in the eyes and words of others. It is a place where the assured and confident can revel in their ambition . . . and where the confused can come to rest . . . to contemplate their confusion.

In a world ruled by practical men . . . where idealists are often outcasts . . . the University is a place where a dream can be the starting point . . . or the goal . . . a place where a dream can be.

The University is a sanctuary of contradictions . . . an island for the confused . . . a starting place for the determined. For the sum total of a University . . . its motive for existence . . . its life and being . . . are the confused, determined people who learn and teach there . . . the people who discover new ideas and define old ones . . . the people who uncover tomorrows with the unlikely device of youth . . . with the secure logic and knowledge of what has gone on before.

Without these people, the buildings would stand mute . . . unable to mutter one idea of their own. Without these people, the University would have nothing to give but silence . . . the echo of unasked questions. Without their curiosity, the University would stand in stillness . . . a symmetrical exercise in buildings and books.

The University exists because they exist. They are the University . . . they are what it stands for . . . it is what they make of it. The University grows only when they grow . . . when the ideas they find here are used to replenish and change the world about them.

The Year . . .

Somehow it Began . . .

Long lines of weary people lean against the walls outside and contemplate the dollar signs and figures which appear on the clattering cash registers inside. Titles and course numbers, authors and schedules are forgotten. The price will be remembered. A jumble of faces and books and shelves, and did you say eight dollars for this . . .

Some time later they escape, with little white bags overflowing with all the books they need, (and one or two they didn't).

In the morning
the university policemen stir from their booths, ticket pads poised in anticipation.
And suddenly, from each direction they come,
the few thousand bleary-eyed souls who descend on the parking lots,
and the long battle for a space begins.
After an hour or two, the commotion and competition have settled into relative tranquility.
The winners are happily and safely parked,
the losers have left their cars
in back alleys or the faculty lots, and others are circling and looking still.

A dorm . . .
an unlikely home
for awhile . . .
a likely sanctuary from the new and strange . . .
a collection of strangers and friends.

A place of study . . .
or one to loaf . . .
or even one to drink coffee
and think about another time and another place.

Grinning workmen stood around the piles of bricks and cement which would someday be a Student Center,
or an Auburn Center,
or a new dormitory,
and discussed other things.
Meanwhile we waited.
Deadlines came and passed,
Fall turned into Winter,
and the buildings remained
just steel-skeleton promises.
We waited.
With the Chuckery lying stillborn
among the unfinished confines of the Student Center, and the Science Center, standing pale and undone, students wondered and waited for the myth-like day of completion.

And then, the Miracles . . .
the days came when the workers left the buildings complete the days we stood around in awe and disbelief.

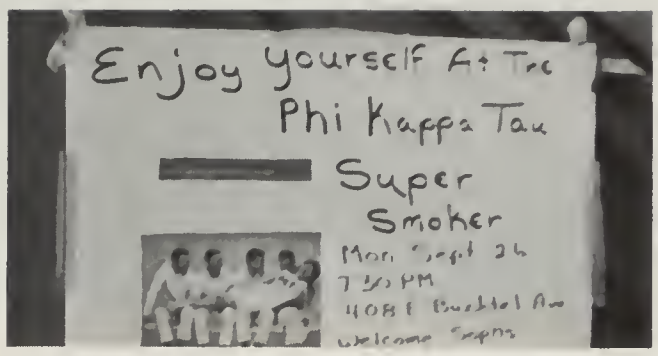
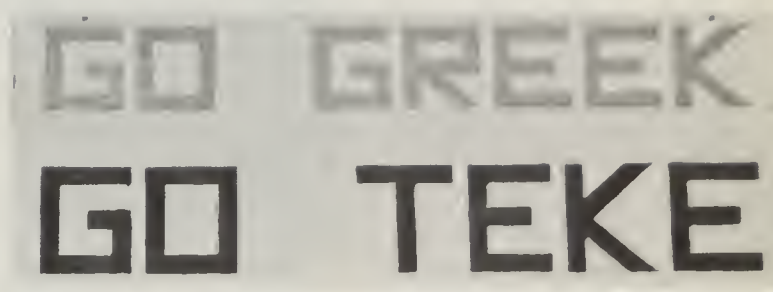
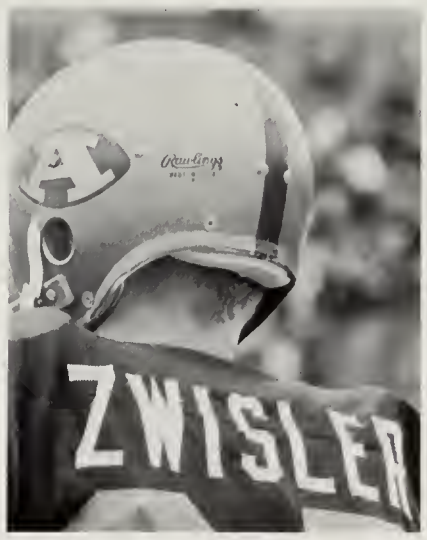
Joseph Crilley





September is a time of rushing, for Freshmen to keep losing their way, and professors to shake their heads; a carnival, the middle of which centers around the magic of RUSH. Monday's strangers smile as they pass; Friday sees the strangers meeting other strangers, and strangers becoming friends. Mid-terms are still so long away, and the sun is still a summer left-over. Impromptu football games are played on lawns and parking lots . . . beanies, buttons and ribbons decorate pledges, and sorority pledges decorate the campus . . . all in the evening of a year which is just beginning.

HARTZ



The long line of impatient people waiting to get in stand outside the tall cement gates, and listen. The call of hot dog and pop-corn vendors floats along the early evening air.

A low murmur hangs above the bowl, which is filled with light against the setting sun. Suddenly an explosion of sound erupts from the stadium, and the people outside wonder if it is them or us.

The people in the line at the gate hurry through, and after a few moments emerge from the dimness of the stadium passageway, into the crashing storm of color and sound which is ACME-ZIP.

Upturned faces, smiling, shouting, frowning with anxiety, concentrate on the small, violent plain, where certain gladiators battle their way without weapons.

Stan Hwyet Hall, the majestic home of the Seiberling family, given to the city by the heirs, provided the backdrop for home soccer games for the Zips. Warm October afternoons saw ever-increasing crowds come to watch the matches on the Great Meadow.

To begin again . . .
means to start with a certain number of friends and familiar faces . . .
and then to make new friends and meet new faces with smiles . . .
and the easy miracle of saying hello . . .
making superficial the space between strangers.

To begin again
with a new year . . .
and with the business of making friends with the people who might have been there all along.

A fine thread of vengeance and violence runs through "The Visit"—taking the audience in its grasp as well as the characters. For an evening we all become citizens of impoverished Gullen—offered wealth in return for a life.

Anton Schill, magnificently portrayed by Bob Crowley, stands accused by the rich and beautiful Claire (Tari Johnson). Only the townspeople, led by their Burgomeister (Mark Auburn), can decide his fate—and ours.

The University Theatre's production of this modern classic, directed by Dr. James F. Dunlap, was the dramatic highlight of the season—pitting men and women against the most basic values of their civilization.

unfinished with being born.

Three hundred years after its premiere, Tartuffe, Molière's satire of religious hypocrisy, continues to make a great number of people laugh, and more importantly, think. Directed by Dr. Wallace Sterling, the production portrays the wide range of human fault and fancy and reaches Moliere's intended conclusions of truth and sincerity.
Orgon (Mark Adams) falls prey to the wily opportunist Tartuffe (George Dick) over the protests of his brother, Cleante (William Compton), wife (Sue Miller), and son (Russ Bolin).
Only when Orgon is persuaded by his wife and the servant Dorine (Sherril Hardin) to eavesdrop on the evil Tartuffe does he realize that he has been taken in. The play ends with Tartuffe being led away to prison and Orgon apologizing to all in his household.

About when you thought it wasn't coming . . .
Spring finally arrived and loosened the desolate pall which hung over everything.
The grayness of the Winter months disintegrated . . .
and suddenly it seemed more fun to just lay around and soak up the precious new sun than to go to that two o'clock class.
Without hats and scarfs, and with smiles . . .
old faces looked new again.
It became harder to sit in class . . .
with sunlight and the sound of people laughing pouring in through the window.

A bright, new-penny April day contains the irony of frowns, and withered skies . . .
and long-haired girls smiling, laughing.
Calliope-sounds from cars and benches.
Young men grin or stare intently at passing scenes, and sometimes wonder . . .
how long youth will be lasting.

Elsewhere, coke-bottle madonnas await their turn to say a word or two . . .
about the world . . . and themselves.

Meanwhile, they continue to be amazed by the order of illogical reality which abounds, surrounds them.
(The miracle event of a smile on a stranger's face.)

But then, remember, time has a way of forgiving . . .
the receding days fade into a jumble of goodbye

Norman Paul Auburn

Having established stability as a tradition, and imagination as a precious commodity, Norman Paul Auburn has already created a place for himself in the heart and history of The University of Akron. During the past sixteen years he has worked vigorously so that the University might have a place and a direction in tomorrow.

Growth to greatness has been a trademark of the Auburn Years, pinnacling in the achievement of full state status on July 1, 1967.

Another project of unequalled importance is the Challenge '70 program, a part of the University's Centennial celebration in 1970, to include a Center for the Performing Arts and renovation of historic Buchtel Hall. Other benefits of this ten million dollar campaign will include endowed professorships, increased library resources, and additional student aid.

Nationally known and respected as an educator and administrator, President Auburn was honored this year by having the state's largest classroom facility dedicated to bear his name —the Norman Paul Auburn Science and Engineering Center. This serves as a fitting tribute to the man whose foresight, leadership, and imagination have brought The University of Akron to grips with the academic, cultural and social Challenges of the '70's.

Buchtel College of Liberal Arts

John H. Bachmann

Substantial growth and new divisions marked the final year of the deanship of George W. Knepper for the Buchtel College of Liberal Arts. In a move to separate the applied and performing arts, a College of Fine & Applied Arts was established, with Ray Sandefur named Dean. Three new honoraries also were introduced to the campus, in Economics, Geography, and Journalism. A high point of the year was reached when the Modern Languages department again received the nation's only NDEA French Institute Grant for a Summer course in intensive study of the French language.

Paul Wingard was named to the position of Assistant Dean of the college, a newly-created position to help the busy Dr. Knepper fulfill the many commitments of the University's oldest college, which have grown considerably along with the increase in student enrollment. Again scholarship was maintained at the high level of previous years, with nearly thirty percent of the students enrolled named to the Dean's List.

The College of Education

Continued growth in both undergraduate and graduate programs marked the first year of Kenneth Barker's service as Dean of the College of Education, the largest degree-granting college within the University. The first day of February also saw the appointment of John Watt as Associate Dean and Director of Secondary Education. Dick Rich was earlier appointed to head the Graduate Program, which saw an enrollment of forty students, during its first year of operation. In anticipation of the switch to the quarter system, a number of new courses were added to the Education curriculum. Educational research also entered into the activity of the College for the first time, as six research personnel were added to the staff. Numerous workshops and seminars were also featured, the highlight being the 1967 Classroom in the Philippines, during the Summer.

As in the past, the College of Education continued to supply the majority of the teachers in the Akron area, witnessing the percentage of University-trained Akron teachers climb past the fifty-two mark.

College of Business Administration

Richard C. Reidenbach's final year as Dean of the College of Business Administration was a full one during the first year of membership in the top 20% of such colleges, as determined by full membership in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. This was granted during 1966. Dean Reidenbach also witnessed a pleasant increase in the number of graduate students, the enrollment being in excess of two hundred for the first time.

For the fourth year, the Accounting Department sponsored an income tax forum in cooperation with the Institute for Civic Education. Conducted by personnel of the Internal Revenue Service, the program attracted nearly four hundred persons from the area.

Undergraduate enrollment continued to increase in all departments, and over thirty students attained the Dean's List.

College of Engineering

Cooperative programs again played an important part in the education of the University's Engineering graduates, with over one hundred thirty students enrolled with some fifty companies and government agencies. Civil, mechanical, electrical and chemical engineering degrees are offered to students, with an emphasis being placed on the arts as well as in the sciences. A Master's degree program is also available, and underwent numerous revisions during the year, which also saw increases in the research activities of the college, headed by Michael Rzasa.

A significant program was training in waterworks management, under the sponsorship of the State Department's Agency for International Development, to train foreign engineers for careers in this vital area.

The members of the college are eagerly awaiting the move to the new Auburn Science and Engineering Center this Fall, which will give them unprecedented space in which to operate.

Community and Technical College

Two-year Associate programs leading to a degree in any of fifteen areas are offered by the Community and Technical College, under the leadership of Dean William Petry. Three new programs, in commercial art, surveying, and international secretarial, were added to the curriculum last Fall. Also within the college was the Department of Special Programs, which offered nearly one hundred twenty-five informal courses with more than two thousand enrollments. Summer remedial courses for college-bound high school students were also offered, and attracted more than four hundred students this year.

Officers of the Senior Class

Ralph Gault, President; Anne Averbuck, Secretary; Sue Finkle; Treasurer; Calvin Person, Vice-president.

Officers of the Junior Class

T. Ochsenhirt; D. Simonetti; P. Ericson; L. Grible; R. Heydorn; C. Nolan; R. Smith; D. Fisher.

WAUP-FM

Service to the University and the Community through the broadcast media is the function of WAUP-FM, the University-owned and operated student radio station. Comprised of twenty-nine staff members, the group learns procedure while giving enjoyment through classical and popular programs, interviews, and sports broadcasts. The chief operators are, from the top: T. Orr; G. Gulbis; D. Lieberth; J. Balas; L. Gulbis; W. Curtice.

Men's Residence Hall advisors (L-R): W. Sloat; S. Bender; M. Weisberg; M. Malyuk; W. Przytula; B. Fike; L. Shirk; T. Bilovecky.

Residence Hall Advisors

Right: Dan L. Buie, Head Resident Advisor.

Women's Residence Hall advisors: S. Finkle; D. Cleveland; A. Strazdins; L. Hofle; J. Inzinger.

Tower Dorm Officers

Tower Residence Hall Association Officers: (L-R): B. Winchell; W. Stephany; T. McVickers; J. Donatone.

Representing the three hundred residents of the Tower Residence Hall in all areas of activity, planning mixers, coffee houses, and like events is the duty of the four officers of the Residence Hall Association for the Tower Dorm. Keeping this series of activities diverse proved to be a most demanding job for the men.

Station WRHA

Providing a refreshing break from the serious business of study is the duty of WRHA, the residence hall radio station, better known as "Where Rock Hits Akron." Organized two years ago, this eager group hopes soon to be able to send its closed-circuit broadcasts beyond the perimeter of the campus to area homes. Meanwhile, they hold forth in the tower dorm basement each night, playing requests and jazz tunes.

Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship

Formed to strengthen both the relationships and the religious principles of the Christian Religions, the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship sponsors numerous and lively discussion meetings at regular intervals throughout the year, and often sponsors trips to other locations. Social events are included also in the full calendar which the fellowship members have developed.

(L-R): Dan Both; Donna Ralph; Nancy Dulabahn; Kevin Smith.

Newman Apostolate

N. Douglas; N. Marusiah; J. Mannine; Sr. Frederick, O.P.; P. Kurtzman; B. Serets; D. Mungo, President.

Swinging Sundays were often the rule at Newman Center during the year, as the group sponsored many discussion programs, and held its usual number of classes and coffee hours, trying very hard to reach the nearly three thousand Catholic students in the student body.

Student Council

Establishment of the May Day Commission to make recommendations for the betterment of this valuable activity occupied the major part of the members of Student Council's time this year.

Pledge Interfraternity Council

Assisting the new fraternity pledge to make the transition to a fraternity man is the duty of the pledge Inter-Fraternity Council. Under the direction of the Vice-President of the regular council, Roger Snoble, the group regularly met and sorted out the problems of being a fraternity pledge.

Student Center Program Board-Board of Governors

Planning the next big attraction finds the Board of Governors of the Student Center Program Board having a quiet discussion in the new Music Room. Keeping the activities which the Board presents varied and numerous enough to provide interesting recreation for the students occupies a great deal of the time of the more than seventy members working on the seven committees of the group, and now that the new building is finished a more complete calendar of events will surely be in the offing.

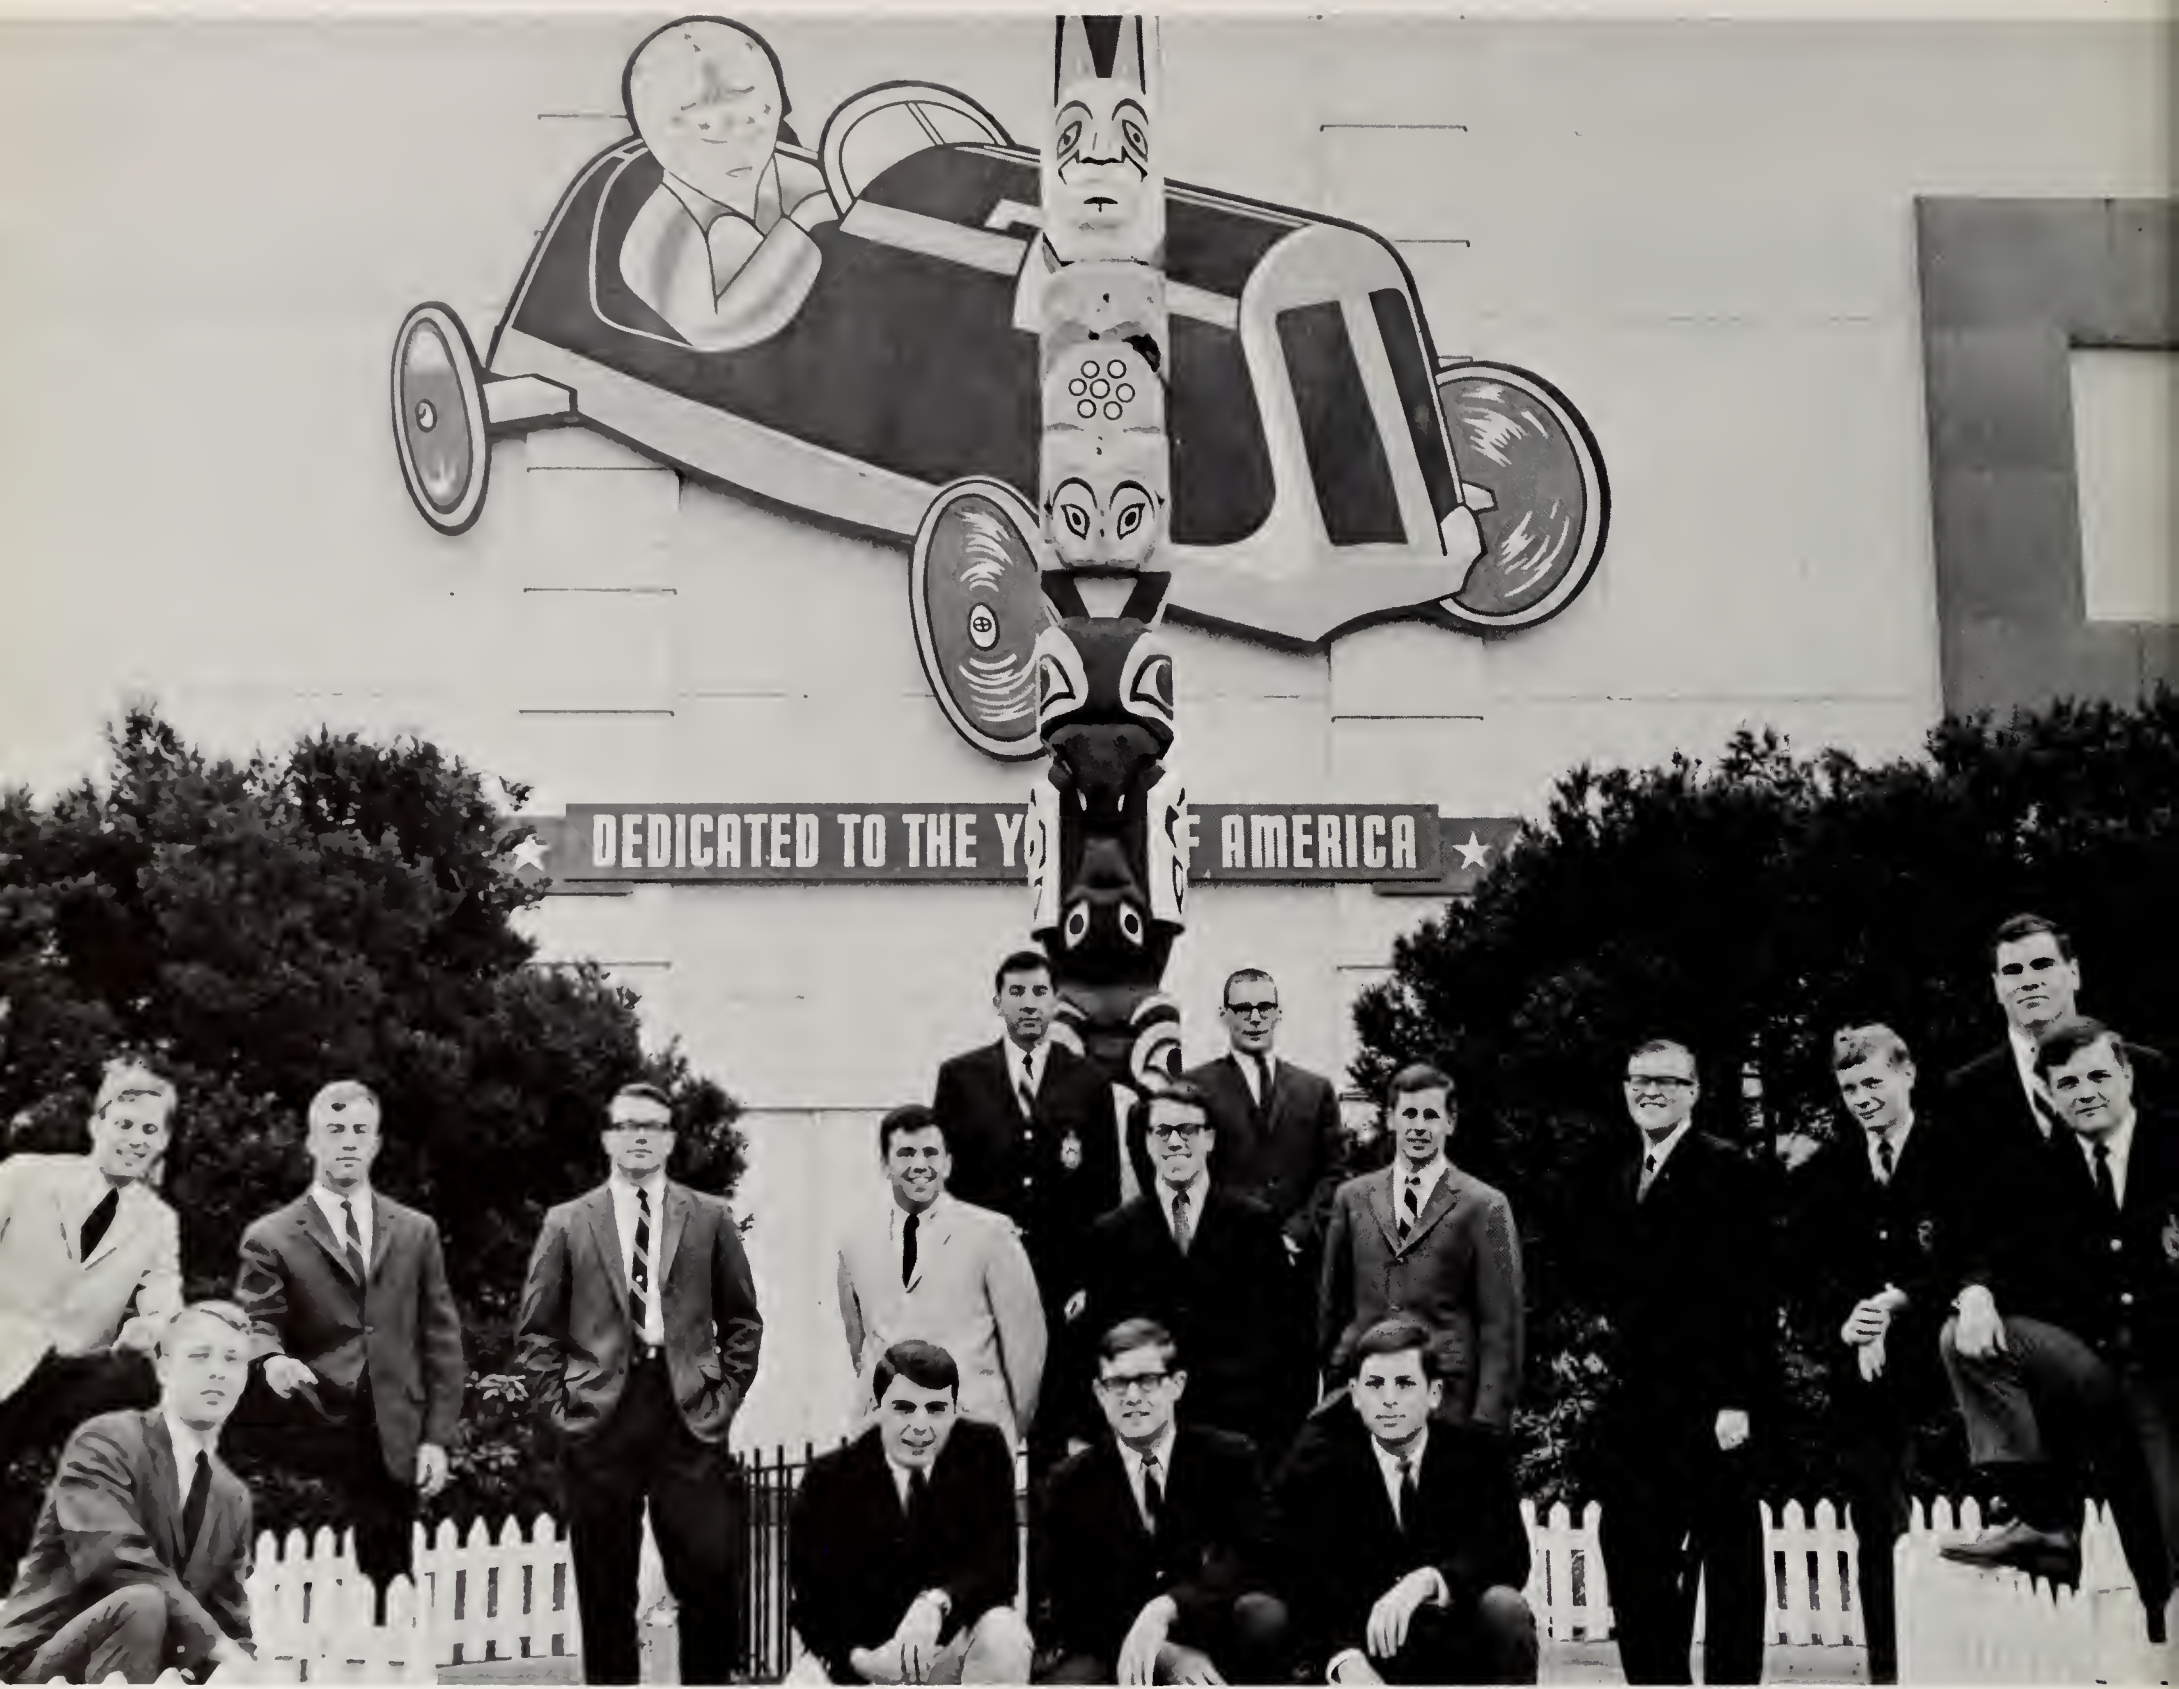
Student Center Crew Managers

Student Center Managers (L-R):
John Murawski
Frank Cianciola
Ralph Larson
Don Sabatino
Rick Leidal

Making certain that it all hums quietly and in unison is the job of the Student Center Work Crew, and the managers who oversee the operations of the workers have been taking no rest since the April dedication. They spent the Winter months getting ready for the big day, and are certainly proud of the building.



Interfraternity Council

No one could say any are more dedicated to the youth of America than the men who make up the Interfraternity Council, governing body for the eleven fraternities on the campus; and as they gathered for the picture at Derby Downs, a more dedicated group would be hard to find anywhere. By working carefully together, the individual groups coasted to an even better year than ever before, again winning the National Interfraternity Conference Scholarship Award.

Panhellenic Council

Members of Pan-Hellenic Council, 1966-67: S. Hannah, President; K. Horrigan; M. Wlader; C. Richards; L. Ivers; S. Swedler; N. Polites; S. Nettling; A. Darnell; S. Jones; E. Keith; J. Campbell; A. Lee; P. VanDoros; A. Gunther; B. Bettner; H. Gerber; L. Dain; L. Barbuto; J. Hester; C. Nolan; F. Berschette; M. Maxwell; J. Petty; S. Swedler; M. Engle; S. Klein; L. Grible; J. Cerrone; C. Niedermyer; P. Werner.

Waiting as the wind blows by the steps of the Norman P. Auburn Center, the members of Pan-Hel Council look a little wind-blown. But don't let their looks fool you, these gals have been busy all year making plans for the enlargement of the system, and the new housing which will soon be made available.

Women's League

Service is the reason for the continued success of Women's League, founded locally in 1907. Striving to represent all women students, the League draws its members from the sororities, dormitories, and the independent students. Programs sponsored by the group have been beneficial to both the men and women students of the University; and this past year included numerous kaffeeklatches, the Christmas Tea, and the Glamour Magazine Fashion Contest. An attempt is made also to increase the faculty-student social contact through the activities of Women's League; within the general framework of its events and accomplishments.

University Theatre Guild

Costuming preparations for their new season finds the membership of the University Theatre Guild ready and waiting in the wings for an entrance. The group staged four major productions and a series of student-directed one acts as well. They are (L-R): Front row: S. Miller; P. Daum; T. Alexander; S. Hollinger; S. Korman. Row two: R. Witt; H. Sturkey; S. Maluke; N. Salzer; G. Dick; D. Baker. Row three (from top of ladder) R. Walker; M. Auburn; T. Dandridge; W. Sterling; J. Dunlap, Director; A. Averbuck.

Sociology Club

Charles Cross Goodyear manages a somewhat wan smile as the members of the Sociology Club gathered in his park for a picture. The group also sponsored trips and held monthly discussion meetings. Kneeling: C. Smith; D. Claus. Standing (L-R): D. Kosoy; T. Tuitt; R. Lapadot; G. Cilano; A. Maxwell; M. Marks; T. Emmons. In rear: W. Hartman; C. Schum.

Members of the Spanish Club, organized to increase the knowledge of interested students of the language, pose in the language lab of the Education Building. (L-R): R. Barrett; J. Donatelli; C. Bingham; A. Hoffman.

Akros

The 1967 Tel-Buch presents a selection of campus personalities —the members of the student body, faculty, and administration who have made the most lasting impressions over the years. This is AKROS—the highest.

Faculty members chosen for AKROS were nominated by the graduates of the Class of 1967, who were polled as they posed for their Senior Portraits. The student members were nominated by the academic deans and other members of the administration, representative students who have made the greatest contributions to campus life. Civic organizations provided the names for the membership drawn from the community.

There's an old cliche about being "a gentleman and a scholar"—Russ Walker dusts off the phrase and gives it a fresh application. An active member of residence hall government and student politics, Russ also uses his talents in theatre activities and campus religious organizations. An honor student, Russell was nominated to Akros by the dean of the Buchtel College of Liberal Arts.

Physics has long been a subject of tremendous challenge to Distinguished Professor Dr. Ernest R. Thackeray, and it has been eighteen years since he arrived in Akron to share the tangents of his field with others. With a degree from the University of Saskatchewan, Canada, Dr. Thackeray applied to the University of Wisconsin, and from there he came South to Akron. The climate seems to have agreed with him, and most of his students are in agreement that the subject of Physics is somehow less foreign to them with Dr. Thackeray at the helm.

From the City of Brotherly Love comes peppy Astrida Strazdins, whose talents have proven most successful for sorority, dorm, and for Homecoming, 1966, of which she was co-chairman. Not one to let the extracurricular whirl keep her from the books, Astrida has also become a serious student of great renown.

The only Dean on Campus who has no real worries at commencement is Dr. Thomas Sumner, Dean of The General College. "D o c" Sumner, however, takes a very active interest in all students, perhaps because such a varied cross section of them come through his office on their way into or out of The University. As Advisor to Omicron Delta Kappa, he has become renowned for his help in shaping the leaders of tomorrow. Also an avid fishing buff, the yarns he spins always seem a good deal more credible than most.

Few students have spent two complete years as Buchtelite Editor—and Dave Shoenfelt can probably tell you why, since he's done it. It's not an easy life, but then Dave's never been one to take the easy way in anything. Since leaving the editorship, he's retired to the relative calm of speech and theatre activities.

Historically speaking, Herodotus was quite a fellow, in that he started the study of the subject in the first place. And Dr. David Reide has been doing his best these past twelve years to help the perplexed students to figure out what has happened since then. To do this he makes use of an old standby from The Saturday Review, and calls his lectures: "Through History with J. Wesley Smith;" filling them with endlessly fascinating personal anecdotes and travel experiences. A sense of humor honed to a fine edge helps many over the difficult passages of his subject.

Many men spend an entire career building a reputation as the colorful, eccentric, or even odd-ball professor: the quaint but brilliant scholar and teacher. Dr. John Popplestone, a mere youth, it would seem, has already become a campus curio, and Head of the Psychology Department. As the televised lecturer for the General Psychology courses, wunderkind Popplestone has attained the highest campus rating since someone loved Lucy. He has also brought to campus the Archives of the History of American Psychology, an addition to the University Library.

Veteran member of the Akron Board of Education, Distinguished Professor Mabel Reidinger is one of the most consistent and popular vote-getters in the city. And in the classroom, Dr. Reidinger manages to get her point across with an equal degree of authoritarian good nature, having long ago earned a reputation as a pillar of educational thought and knowledge. Dr. Reidinger always has a ready ear for the student, whether it be problems in or out of the classroom.

It isn't everyday that a university professor is called upon to build a whole new college, but then, William Petry isn't an everyday type. As the first Dean of the Community and Technical College, Dean Petry has built an exciting variety of courses leading to the two-year Associate degree. At the same time he has been busily planning for the new headquarters of the college in Schrank Hall.

One fellow we know was so concerned over the neat appearance of his homework papers in Dr. Sam Selby's Advanced Math class that he spent three hours each evening just typing his equations . . . and of course he flunked the course because he was too busy typing to listen to instructions. But such is not uncommon when dealing with Dr. Selby, a man often hidden from view of the students by clouds of eraser dust, such is the frantic pace of his lectures. An avid sports enthusiast, this Distinguished Professor is second only to Ken Cochrane in rousing laughter at a good joke.

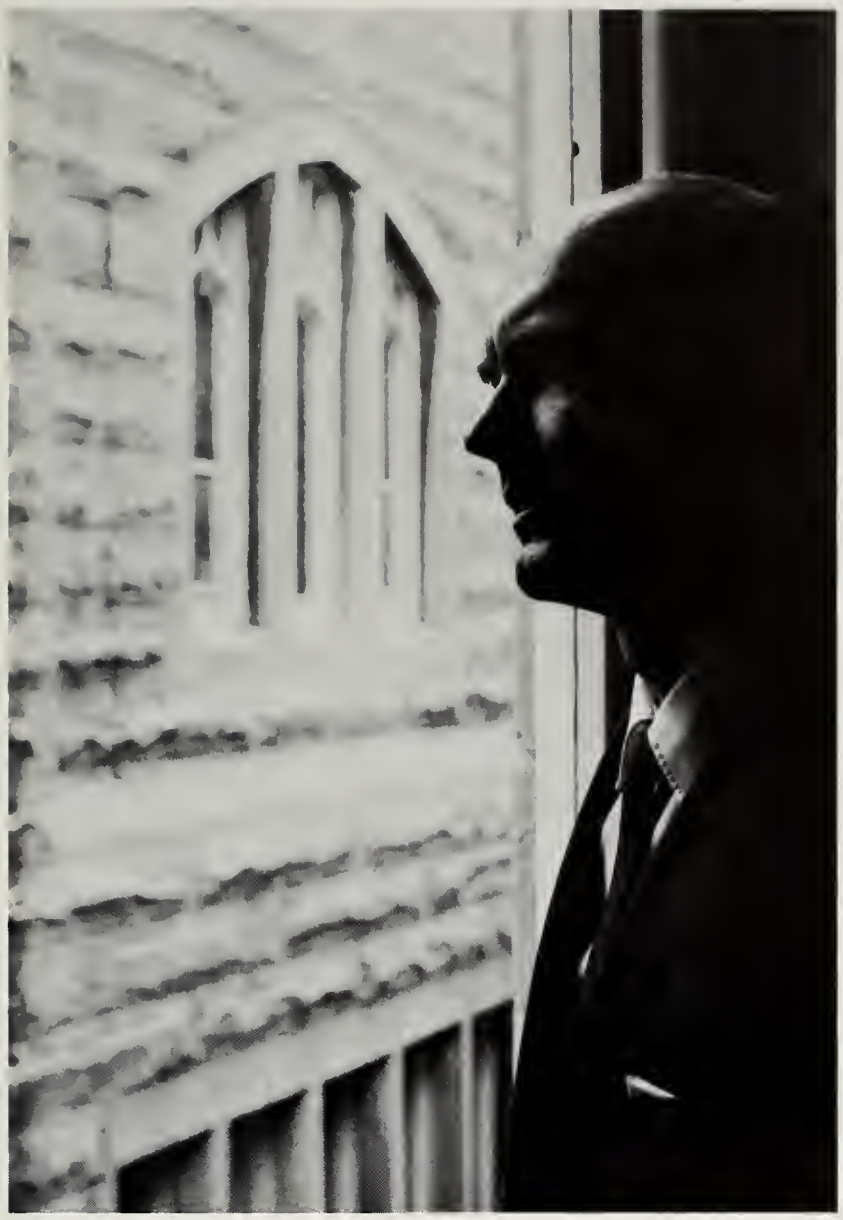
If you can just get Dave Pagnard to sit down for a minute and put his mind to something, he'll probably do it better than anyone else. Somebody talked him into acting in a play once—since then he's become a University Theatre mainstay. Then he heard the Buchtelite needed reporters—and went on to be its highly-praised Editor. Once he wandered into College Bowl tryouts, ending up as a member of the television team. Nobody's asked Dave to join the football squad yet—but then, who's perfect? The Dean of the Buchtel College of Liberal Arts chose Dave to represent the college in this section.

"Let Jean do it!" is good advice for anyone wanting the best possible job accomplished with the certain womanly style of Jean Longanbach. This energetic president of Mortar Board proves that a good student doesn't always have to look like somebody's grandma.

Being the Dean of a fine liberal arts college is the life's ambition of a great many men, and a position few would readily give up. Yet such is the desire to return to the classroom he loves that this Spring Dean George W. Knepper resigned as Dean of The Buchtel College of Liberal Arts to return to his students of History. Renewal of student contacts, long neglected during his tenure in the Dean's chair, is what he looks forward to most of all, and of course he will begin work on the centennial history of the University.

The best game of volleyball this side of the YMCA, is the one which finds Professor Roger Kvam a participant. But his prime talent is the fire-and-brimstone approach to political science, and in the lecture room he pulls out all the stops. Outside, he has the knack for becoming a true friend of students, with hardly a Sunday afternoon passing without a gathering at the Kvam household. But watch out for him on the volleyball court, political scientists play to win.

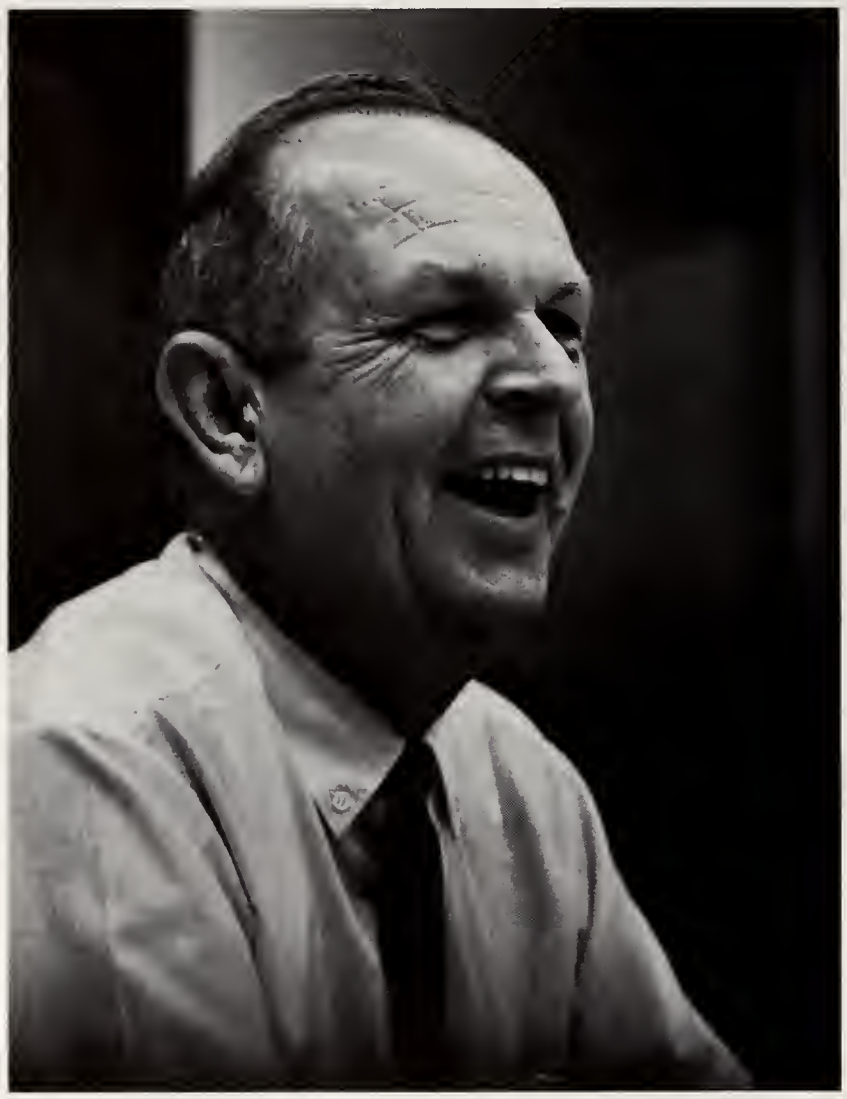
Rallying and unifying the members of the Firestone Park section of Akron to help citizens know themselves better and make the area a vital and truly alive community, The Reverend Charles T. McCabe did such a fine job that the Junior Chamber of Commerce selected him as the Outstanding Young Man of the Year, 1967. Ignoring creed and racial boundaries, Father McCabe started the Firestone Park Citizens Council, and has made it into a strong force in helping the section remain stable; sponsoring art shows and pop concerts, dances and other events. The high point of the council was the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the founding of Firestone Park this Spring. Truly a young man on the move, Father McCabe's jovial manner belies an inner seriousness which has distinguished him among his flock.



Music hath charms, and so hath music professors. A gentle and youthful manner with students puts Dr. John MacDonald in the charmed circle of Akros members. Director of both The University of Akron and the Akron Symphony Choruses, Dr. MacDonald's talents are appreciated far beyond the campus.

Being selected Ohio's College Queen by a state-wide campus vote wasn't Mary Ann Munka's first claim for the limelight. Mary Ann has been on every major queen's court and beauty contest roster on campus. An energetic bundle of healthy femininity, Mary Ann has brains to match her dimples —one of the reasons why she was selected by her dean to represent the College of Education on these pages.

Demanding the most from the students does not always mean the most will come out. But if anyone can manage to get the most out, it is Dr. James Dunlap, who has persuaded more budding actors to enter Kolbe Theatre than the architects had room for. The result has been the planning for the new performing arts center, with a vastly enlarged student theatre. A fair and impartial judge of characters both on and off the stage, "Dr. D." has become close to the hearts of great numbers of students.



Be it Byzantine tessarae or the third book of Faerie Queene, Julia Hull can be counted on to lead a spirited discussion on most any subject in her famous oil-and-vinegar style. A very popular component of the English department, Mrs. Hull is also highly regarded as a discussion leader for Western Cultural Traditions.

Traditional student distrust of anyone past the age of thirty is an historical inevitability, so it takes an uncommon amount of talent to make Dudley Johnson so popular with the students. As Director of Counseling Services, Dudley's reputation rests on his candid manner with students. And not only do the students trust Dudley—he is one of the few men whom they feel trusts them.

Flamboyance personified, (who else would come to campus in a 1946 Cadillac?) Bud Dick might possibly be mistaken as a Gabor sister out on a drunk. Concentrating all this energy and virtuosity into one 9 x 12 inch package, he came up with the 1967 Tel-Buch. One of the more familiar faces on the University Theatre Stage, Bud has from time to time dabbled in just about every activity the campus can offer, including, it is told, going to class now and then.

If you've heard there are only twenty-four hours in a day, please don't let Lina Derry know about it. The year's Outstanding Greek Woman has been squeezing out twenty-nine hours' worth of activity for some time now. A member of just about every campus activity, Lina is perhaps best described as that fast-moving object that has just streaked by you. Lina's appearance here was prompted by the Dean of the College of Business Administration.

Henry Jaroszewski walked into the WAUP studios a few years ago, and some say he never left. The rumor exaggerates Henry's importance to station operations, of course, but not by much. He does just about everything but sing the Star Spangled Banner at sign-off. Service to Phi Sigma Kappa and the Greek System made Henry this Year's Outstanding Greek Man.

The Tel-Buch's Representative Man of 1931 was an outgoing Scotsman by the name of Kenneth "Red" Cochrane. Today he's the Director of Athletics and one of the best known people in town. Red is one of a kind—with a laugh like a Wurlitzer, and a Barnum's talent for promoting Zip athletics.

If this campus has a "first lady" she's the president of Women's League—and no one carries the title with more grace and enthusiasm than Loretta Cerrone. Crowner for the 1965 May Day festivities, Loretta is an active Greek and a member of several education societies.

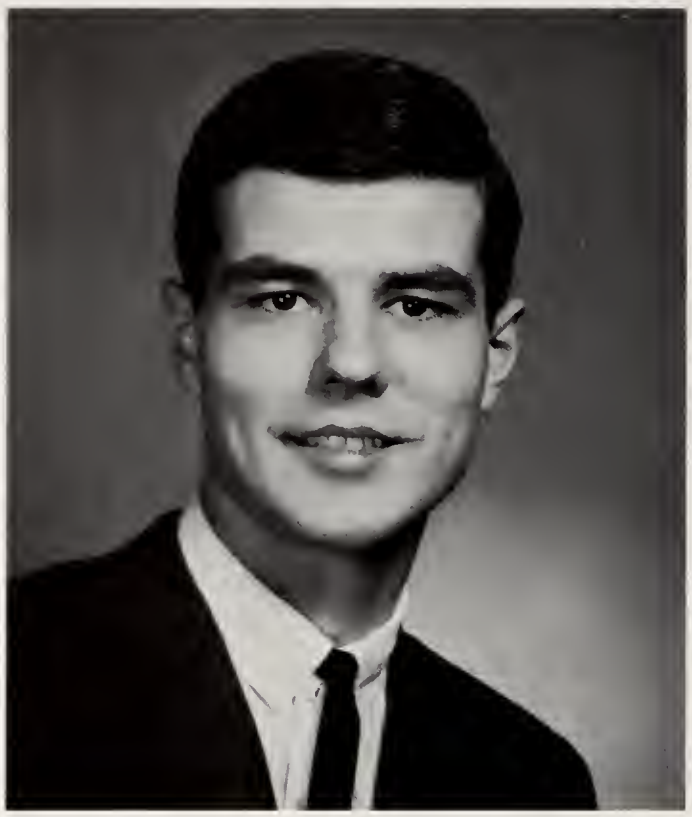
Directing the activities of the Institute For Civic Education, the Adult education division of The University, has been a full-time job for years, but Charles V. Blair has so many talents that he has made the whole operation hum more smoothly while working at it only part-time; or so it would seem when this Spring he added the role of Dean of the Evening College to his busy schedule. Always a busy man in and about the city, it becomes evident on talking with this eager young enthusiast that the city and the solutions to its problems are the central points of his work. The Akron Jaycees agreed last year when he was named Outstanding Young Man of the Year, 1966.

Equally at home on the stage or in front of a typewriter, Mark Auburn left his mark in both University Theatre and student publications, while managing to graduate with two degrees, both with honors. An avid student of both English and mathematics, Mark has appeared with distinction in numerous theatre roles and was business manager of the 1967 Tel-Buch. As a feature writer for the Buchtelite, Mark wrote an award-winning series describing his travels behind the Iron Curtain.

Of the 8 million, New York City saw fit to send us Anne Averbuck—for us, the best deal since the Indians sold out for twenty-four dollars worth of pop-beads. Few University activities were left without a hearty assist from the tireless Miss Averbuck, who gave of herself to the Tel-Buch, Buchtelite, University Theatre, Student Center Program Board, Senior class, and Greek System.

Robert C. Berry came to The University in 1938, and has only been away from it for four years—during World War II. His latest task is a most demanding one, trying to find jobs for graduating Seniors. A man of many talents, Mr. Berry is always eagerly sought out for his opinions on subjects of concern to Seniors, and has served as Senior Class Advisor for longer than any of us care to remember. It is often that the Berry Volkswagen is the last one out of the faculty parking lot.

Gerald Abraham was chosen by the Dean of the Engineering College for this Akros listing. It's not difficult to see why. Gerald has been on the dean's list each semester and was the outstanding freshman and outstanding sophomore selected by engineering honor societies.



Carol Motz hardly fits the old school-marm cliche. This bouncy Education major, selected by her dean for Akros, is an active sorority member and Angel Flight sponsor. The president of the Student National Education Association and a veteran Homecoming committee head, Carol's creative leadership has contributed to the success of many a campus endeavor.

Like the Emperor of Japan, whose real calling seems to have been to the fishes, Paul Belcher, the Akronite of the Year, sometimes thinks his real calling is to the birds; and in that area he supplies the Akron Beacon Journal with a weekly column on Orinthology. But another thing which drives him batty is the thought that so fine a school as The University of Akron should be lacking a medical school, and so to the realization of this end he has devoted a great deal of hard work. During working hours one may find him at the First National Bank, where he is Vice-President, but it is his activities outside of his occupation which have distinguished him in the eyes of all segments of the community. Mr. Belcher was also recently honored by having the newest of the Akron Metropolitan Housing Authority's twelve story high-rise facilities named for him.

Even an old frump like John Milton can take on an exciting new corporate image after Dr. Don Keister gets done with him. And although Shakespeare needs no PR, Dr. Keister has been known to give him a dusting-off as well. Named acting-dean of the liberal arts college this spring, Dr. Keister has been head of the general studies program and a major bastion of the English department for many years. Being the compleat scholar, his knowledge is renowned, his gruffness legend and his warm-heartedness widely appreciated.

Dr. Charles Duffy can lecture all he wants to about those fantastic characters you run across in his English fiction courses. But a quick-witted student will realize that no Pickwick or Macawber could ever match the twinkle-eyed Professor Duffy for colorful eccentricity or lovable devilment. As much a landmark on campus as Buchtel Hall or the 1880 Rock, Dr. Duffy's love of teaching is excelled only by his admiration for trees and beasties and the good, honest feel of baggy tweeds.

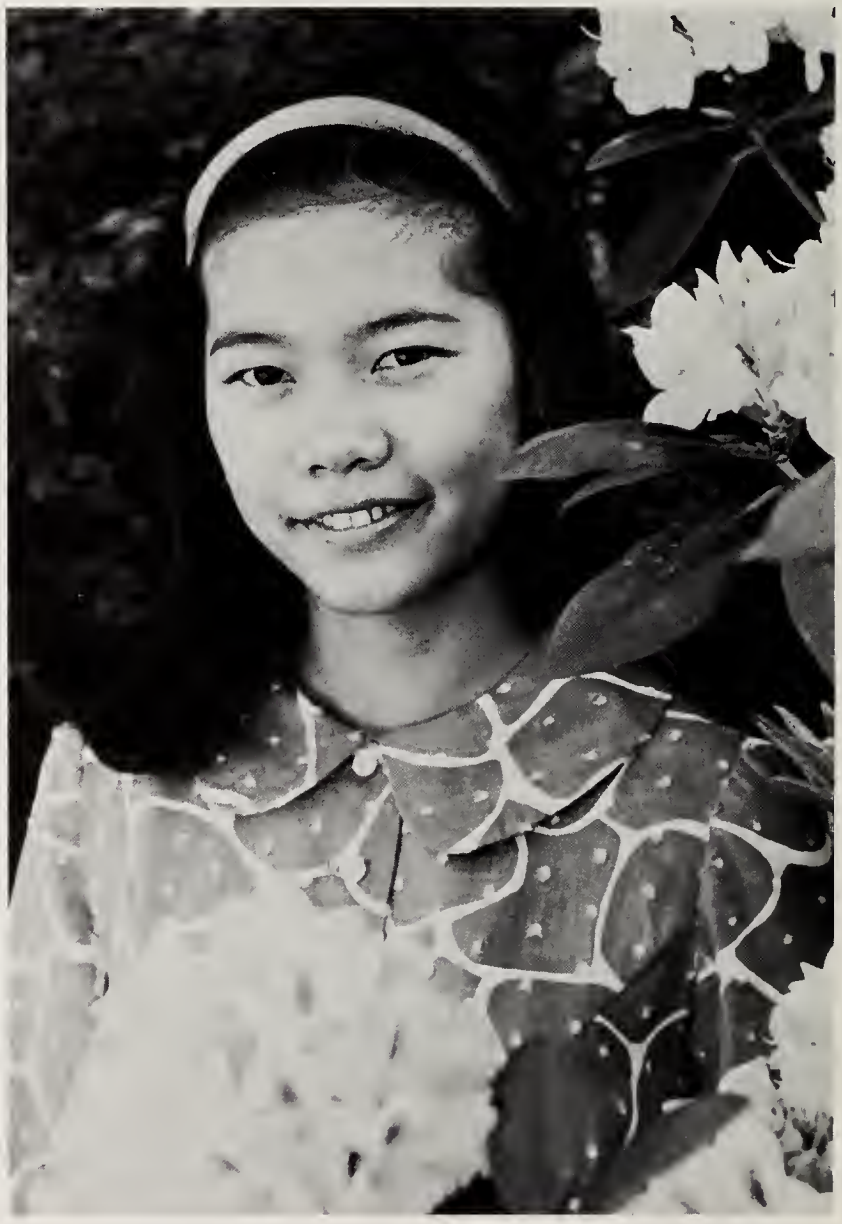
He's one of those squeeky-clean types: reeking with good health, enthusiasm, talent, and that All-American glow, and an Omicron Delta Kappa scholar besides. Dave Hickman left his mark on both the football and wrestling teams during his four years, and during the last year was also the Air Force ROTC department's wing commander. Ever ready to jump into a situation as a real friend, Dave has become known to almost everyone on campus for his quick smile and good manners.

Sharing the ride this trip is Sue Finkle, the 1966 Homecoming Queen, who is out to see if the wind will lighten her hair. Sue was president of her sorority and a stalwart fixture in the Student Council office during the year.

Since it purports to be the highest, Akros should include the campus royalty, right? So here are the 1967 Tel-Buch King and Queen, and the May Day Queen.

Larry Ungerman, a Toronto native, likes just about any thing which keeps him on the move. He includes fast cars and sports which share his enthusiasm for speed as well.

Miss Jo Yee, our Tel-Buch Queen, calls Hawaii home, and a more gracious and charming representative that island never has sent us. Jo is just about the most perfect representative for the typical Miss Student, and a great number of activities have benefitted from her participation.



Chosen the 1967 May Queen was Miss Kathy Palmer, a young lady of considerable grace and charm. Kathy is about the only Akron resident who reminds one of a typical gracious southern belle, with good looks to boot.

What Francis Scott Key saw by the dawn's early light couldn't have stirred the heart of anyone quite as much as the way a Don Williams "stuff" sent Zip basketball fans into glazed-eye hysteria the past few seasons. Just as popular off the gym floor, Don was one of the true campus heroes and natural choice as Zip Athlete of the Year. This summer Don was signed by the Cleveland Browns, leaving Hilltop fans to wonder—how do you dunk a football?

Sometimes the shadow of knowledge is cast too far. The buildings that stand importantly, and the days and events that pass austerely seem more necessary than the people. But it is the people who are the University's life. It is the people who, with the miracles of curiosity and imagination, prevent the University from becoming yesterday. By themselves and together, people live and work, laugh and wonder, adding the uniqueness of their individualities to form a new whole. To form a living, growing University.

Not to be confused with the run-of-the mill grasslands sitters, the members of Alpha Kappa Alpha spent the year making things green for several local groups, and helped man the blackboards for the Akron Tutorial Project as well. Socially, the Mother-daughter tea, Memorial Day Picnic, and numerous informals marked high spots on a full calendar for the Alphas.

Ohio Epsilon of Phi Delta Theta—1875

Gathered in the Japanese sunken garden at Stan Hwyet on a Sunday afternoon, the Phi Delts look like a group of displaced diplomats; but looks can deceive, because the men of Ohio Epsilon kept themselves busy this year winning First Places in Songfest and the May Day Float competition. The Phi Delts also counted twenty-five members on varsity athletic teams, more than any other house on campus, and watched eagerly as two of these earned All-American berths. Ohio Epsilon men were no laggards on campus either, having the offices of the Junior Class, Student Center Program Board and AUSA pretty well tied up, and winning the Pledge King as well.

Lambda of Kappa Kappa Gamma—1877

Certainly no group to be found bringing up the rear, the Kappas spent a good deal of time this year chugging off to community and campus events. They brightened a local family's Christmas with food, and gave a party for orphans with the Lambda Chis. Earlier they steamed off with the First Place Scholarship trophy for the seventh consecutive semester, and watched five of the sisters at games perform as cheerleaders. Three fraternities chose Kappas as sweethearts, and the Outstanding Senior Woman calls the Kappa house home.

Just happened to be passing by the local distributors the other day, and who should catch our eye but the gentlemen of Lone Star, sitting out front. Seems they were afraid there might be a strike on soon, and they wanted to get an idea of what the picket line life is like; isn't that it, guys? Actually, no slouches when it comes to work, the Stars took great pride in being the first ones finished with their float during May Day this year, and were thus able to use their time in more scholarly activities. They also managed to raise a bit of foam for the Summit County Society for the Blind, sponsoring the Hobo Hop with the DG's, and proudly watched as Ralph Gault became the seventh consecutive member of the house to be elected Senior Class President.

Don't get the idea from looking at them that the DG's are just sitting around waiting for the surf to rise, because you may get run over as they make headway on the campus and in the nation. Eta chapter was very honored this year to see Mary Ann Munka chosen Ohio College Queen, and Jo Yee chosen Tel-Buch Queen. The chapter also floated a "Let's Go To Florida" Open House, and again sponsored the "Hobo Hop" in November to raise money for its charity, the Summit County Home for the Blind. The Gold Diggers' Formal was the hit of the Spring season, while the girls also took their dads out to a basketball game at the Dad's Night. Wearers of the anchor pin on campus were included in twenty-six organizations and activities during the year, making Eta one of the most active chapters, as well as the nation's oldest surviving DG house.

Gamma Alpha of Lambda Chi Alpha—1919

Some local wag told the Lambda Chi's that there was gold buried under the old covered bridge out by Peninsula, and here they are, complete with getaway car to remove the booty. The next thing we can expect is to see them call the Woodchoppers' Ball a Gold Diggers' Formal, if things just go the same way for the DG's. But they didn't stand around waiting for the gold to jump out at them all year, in fact were busy sewing up the campus government scene; and jumping up here and there to plant other seeds of success in various areas.

Omicron of Phi Mu—1912

Aspiring to the highest spot around town, the Phi Mus managed to climb quite a number of campus mountains this year. Among them were the Greek Week trophy for the Most Improved Scholarship, and a top float prize in the May Day competition. Omicron chapter was also active in campus activities, with the May Day Chairman calling on them for a good bit of assistance, and the chapter's annual King of Hearts Tea on February 14 was again a smashing delight.

Alpha Phi of Phi Kappa Tau—1938

They do look like an intelligent bunch, just sitting there looking at you, don't they? Well, in addition to winning the First Place Trophy for Scholarship this year, the men of Alpha Phi also captured the Fraternity All-Sports Trophy, a first for the house. The men of Alpha Phi also were to be found adding that distinctive Phi Tau touch to a number of other campus activities, and were pleased to see members included in Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Eta Sigma. The Dream Girl Formal highlighted the busy Spring social season for Phi Tau, which almost made up for the disastrous fire suffered by their float during May Day. And they can sing almost as well as they sit, because they came in second in Songfest.

Sippin' as they sit out at Barnhill's, the Alpha Gams reflect a big scoop of glamor, and they have it, what with the Homecoming Queen, a majorette, the May Day Queen, finalist in the Glamor Magazine Contest, and seven lovely military sponsors. Alpha Gams were also active on the campus activity front, being seen in Student Council, the Dorm Government, and in Who's Who, too. But they also saved time to host a fund-raising party for the cerebral palsy victims of the city, and held a candy sale for another area charity. And lest we forget, they ran off with the Queen of National Bagel Day, too.

Theta Deuteron of Alpha Epsilon Pi—1941

Homebodies all, the AEPi's refused to leave that nice new house to have their picture taken, even on National Bagel Day. Since they dedicated it back in October, the new house has been the center of activity for the men of Theta Deuteron chapter. Hosting a large number of parties once again became the usual activity for the AEPi's, and National Bagel Day, complete with the Queen Bagel, was the highlight of the Spring season. Other areas of campus activity to benefit from the insight of the men of the house were the political parties, Student Council, Phi Eta Sigma, and the Young Democrats. Sports activity was also a part of the house specialty, with Joe Quieroga captaining the soccer team. AEPi was also distinguished when Larry Ungerman was chosen Tel-Buch King.

Beta Xi of Zeta Tau Alpha—1929

Summit Mall on a Sunday afternoon is hardly the place one might expect to find the busy Zetas, but they managed to stop by on their way out to look at new houses, since they plan on a move shortly. They also busied themselves enough to win the Best Float Competition in May Day with the Phi Delts, and the Scholastic Improvement Award in the Fall. Christmas time saw the girls host two large parties, one for the Children's home, and one for all the fraternity presidents. Another highlight of the social calendar was the annual "Gingeree" Open House for the entire campus.

Quarrying around for something new this year, the Phi Sigs came up with the largest pledge class on campus, and seven of them carved out places among the top ten pledges ratings. The men of Eta Triton chapter also managed to have the Best Engineered float in the May Day Competition, and were proud to have Henry Jaroszewzki named the Outstanding Greek Man of 1967. The members also were active in Student Council, WAUP, and the "Ugly Man" contest during Greek Week.

Sigma of Theta Phi Alpha—1931

A golf course is just the spot for swingers—and Akron's Theta Phi Alpha chapter fills the role to a tee. These "on the ball" sisters have made a happy habit of taking top campus beauty honors, including Glamour Queen, Tel-Buch Queen runner-up and May Court Crowner. First Place blood drive and intramural trophies are also filling the mantel in their new chapter house.

Just give them the tools and they will begin to build it, the Theta Chis are so anxious to occupy the new house they have so long planned and saved for. And if the house ever does get finished, it will be the largest new one on campus. But while they were waiting, the men of Beta Lambda were not idle. They start off each year with the serenade to new pledges of all the sororities; this year co-hosted a party for needy children with the ADPi's, and held a collection for needy area families with the Alpha Gams. Beta Lambda again held its traditional Southern Hospitality Open House, and added a Wine Festival just for fun this year.

Members of the local Jet Set, the Sig Delts counted the numerous blessings of being in the right spot at the right time, capturing a Third Place scholastic trophy, Best Participation trophy for Greek Week, five places on the Student Center Program Board, and the Crescent Girl of Lambda Chi Alpha. The girls also took time out to find their first Torch Flame, Irv Bails; and spent a day of community service at the Juvenile Diagnostic Center on Dan street. The Jet-setters also managed to squeeze in a "Way Back When" Open House for the campus.

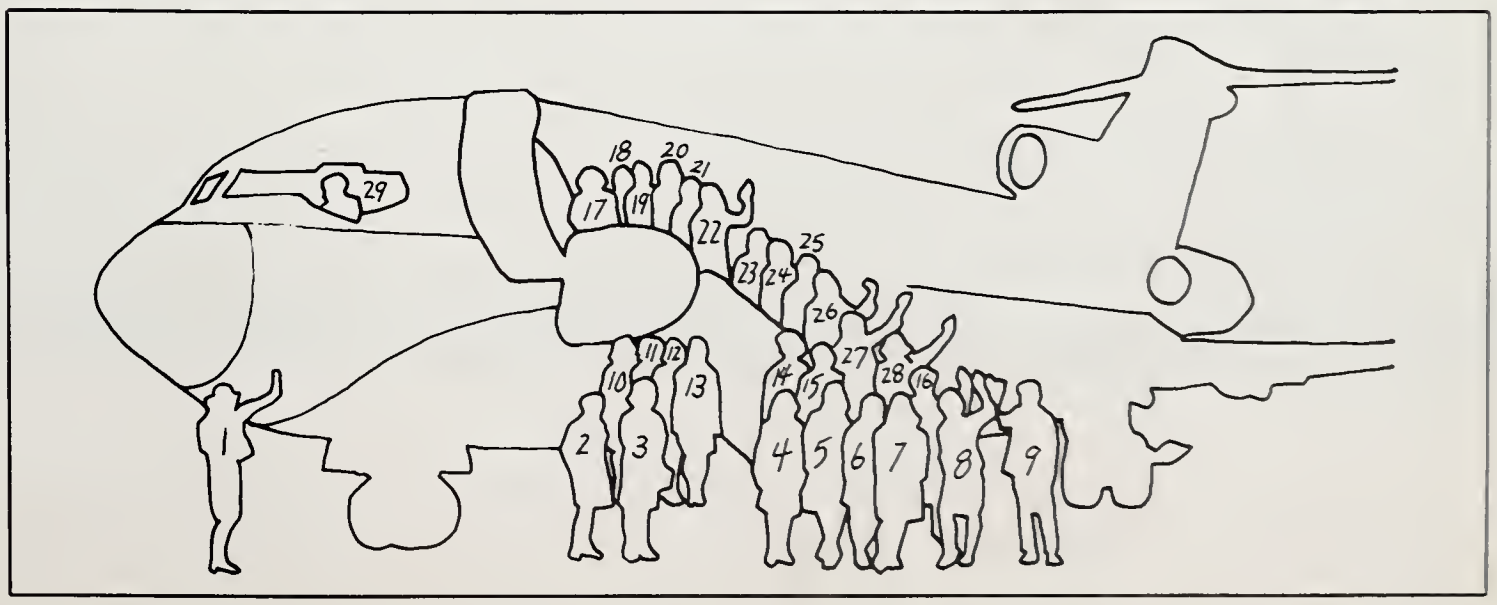
Alpha Psi of Sigma Delta Tau—1934



Pulling a lot of switches was nothing new to the Tekes this year, since house members copped the presidencies of most of the engineering societies on the campus again, as well as earning a number of other top campus positions. And for its annual Public Service Weekend, the chapter chugged out to the Girl Scout camp for a day of intense clean-up activity. Tekes also placed in the top three scholastically, in the Blood Drive, and in the May Day Float competition.

Beta Tau of Alpha Delta Pi—1938

Swingin' out the firehouse door, the ADPi's seem to be off to the next fire, complete with Heidi, the Dalmatian. And the sirens were kept screaming long into the year, as the girls of Beta Tau ran off with just about all the things they needed to keep the fires burning for yet another year. The fireladies can also keep up the local Fireshop Quartet, as they proved by taking a Second Place in Songfest, and they trotted over to help the Alumni Office in its annual "AU Calling" campaign. The pledges of Beta Tau also got fired up with enthusiasm this year, and came home with a First Place trophy in the Greek Week Skit Night competition. The chapter was also proud to learn that Lina Derry was chosen Outstanding Greek Woman. Other areas of the campus activity front saw a number of ADPi faces, and scholarship was certainly a strong point, with thirteen girls on deans' lists.

Alpha Tau of Alpha Phi Alpha—1957

John Brown's body lies nowhere to be seen, although his one-time home provides an interesting backdrop for the men of Alpha Tau chapter, who were busy this year in working with the underprivileged children of the area through the Akron Tutorial Project, and in improving the house intramural record. The Alpha Phis also kept the house scholarship up to the usual high standards.

Were we to judge him on looks alone, it would appear that Harvey Firestone was a grand old man who spent a lot of his time just sitting around; but then look at the empire he left behind, and it is apparent that Delta Zeta has no intentions of being caught sitting down, either. The girls spent a lot of time this year helping staff the Speech and Hearing Clinic, their philanthropic project; and seem to have learned enough in the process to win a First Place in Songfest. The top scholar of the 1967 class, Carol Bingham, who ended her academic career with a 3.937 average, calls the DZ house home, as do many members of the campus scholastic honoraries. Social activities saw the DZ's win the Phi Tau 500 Tricycle Race, as well as the Lambda Chi Water Chugging Contest, proving they can enjoy themselves as well as study hard.

Being on camera certainly was nothing new to the Sigma Pi's this year, because they did two outstanding things which put them in the limelight. First, they became installed as the eighty-fifth chapter of the national fraternity, in October, and then they retired the Championship trophy for the Blood Drive, with their third straight win. Another attention getting feature of Gamma Nu was the fact that it was voted outstanding chapter in the province while still a colony, in August, 1966. Springtime was the time for the Orchid Ball, held at Tangier and Stan Hwyet, with over one hundred couples in attendance. There were numerous areas of campus activity which benefited from active Sigma Pi participation, as befits any top chapter. Gamma Nu also stole the show with a Second Place scholarship win in the Fall awards.

Chi Omega sorority gets its collective feet wet on campus for the first time. A new colony of the nationally prominent sorority started out this spring with twenty-one bright young coeds, who seem to be cooling their heels for a moment before plunging into the mad flurry of fall rush. Needless to say, the women of Chi Omega are looking forward to making a big splash on campus.

Just waiting for the dust and dirt to settle a bit so they can begin building, the members of the newest group on campus rest from their chores. Organized May 3, 1967, Ohio Iota Colony has moved right into campus affairs as a contender for the top spots. Since they were too late to enter May Day competition, they spent the time getting acquainted with other groups, and helping where they could. They look forward to a summer of rushing activity, with informal parties throughout, and hope to be chartered in October, 1968.

Varsity Football—Defensive team

Six straight years of winning campaigns, as well as the sixth consecutive Acme-Zip win of his career marked the 1966 season for Gordon Larson and the Zips. Losing a starting quarterback after three games, Larson relied on sophomore Don Zwisler, and with the winning combination of Zwisler and Ron Tyson, the Zips won five of the next six games, bringing back memories of the Joe Mackey-George Deo combination of 1961.

Defensively, a close-knit and highly developed veteran unit, composed of seniors Braccio, Englehart, Fuciu, Hickman, Kerkian, Rothermel and Seiler was especially tough in rushing defense, limiting the last seven opponents to an average of only sixty yards of rushing per game. One of the highlights of the defensive season was the holding of the Baldwin-Wallace team for four downs at the three yard line to save the win for the Zips.

Soccer

Compiling another outstanding record of 10-2, and the seventh Ohio Collegiate Soccer Association championship in nine years, the Zip booters emphasized success in the form of the short pass intermixed with the fast break.

The season highlight was reached when the Zips played Michigan State in the NCAA University Division championships. The Zips, ranked Third in the midwest, were one of sixteen teams selected for the contest.

The well-coordinated scoring unit centered around All-Midwest selection Jim Fonte and Andy Vadnay, with Hassan Ahmadi also contributing greatly. The solid defensive unit, which held the opponents to an average of two goals per game, was paced by Joe Queiroga and Ford Brunner, both potential All-Americans.

Rifle

"Balance" is the elusive item which spelled victory for the Zip Riflemen this year, and the balanced team finished the season undefeated for the first time in eleven years; ending up among the top ten teams in the nation. The adoption of the "Fort Benning Doctrine" helped a great deal to lead the Zips to the 12-0 mark. (This is shooting from the most comfortable position.) The team also finished second and third in the National Rifle Association's sectional meet, firing on international and NRA targets, respectively.

Top Average shooter Jack Jones, voted Outstanding Rifleman for the third straight year, was separated from the seventh man by only eight points, which indicated the close balance involved in this remarkable team.

Potentially speaking, the 1966-67 Zip Basketball team could have been the greatest ever on the Hilltop. But even a 20-5 record was not enough for the perfection-minded Zips, who were looking forward to the return trip to Evansville, and the national title chance again. But to look at the statistics, it was a very good year, with the squad boasting the number one, two and thirteenth all-time high scorers. Three-time Little All-American Bill Turner, a 6 foot 8 inch center, holds the most individual records, including:

Most career points—1,630
Most points as a sophomore—448
Most rebounds in a game—27
Most career field goals—637
Best season field goal percentage—539
Best season free throw percentage—876

Don Williams, the greatest crowd-pleaser to come along in ages, and favored as "Captain Stuff", became the best career field goal percentage shooter—488. The team also compiled the nation's longest home-court winning streak—52.

Swimming

Improvement was in store for the Zip swimming team this year, the first under new head Coach Andy Maluke; and improve they did, although the season total of five wins and six losses is the same as last year. The difference this year was in how close the margin of victory or defeat came to the expectations of Maluke. Individual improvement was noted in that the mermen bettered the previous season's times in five of eleven events.

For the third straight time, co-captains Ed Steinmetz and Pat McDonald were voted the outstanding swimmers. Both earned the title of Little All-American in their favorite sport. Steve Tillotson and Clark Morgan also turned in new Zip record-breaking times for the 100 yard freestyle, and the 500 and 1000 yard freestyle respectively.

Wrestling

Highly successful is the key word for the Zip's wrestling team, during the first year of John Lahoski's coaching; giving Akron its sixth straight year of winning seasons. These wins included the first win in five years over the 1966 Ohio Conference champions, Baldwin-Wallace.

Co-captain Dave Hickman, a veteran 167-pounder, won his first six contests before being sidelined by an ear infection, closing out his career with a 15-8-4 dual meet mark, including four pins—one each year. Also closing out his career was co-captain Bill Moody, 130-pounder, who finished 17-14-6 in an off-year effort. Outstanding among the Juniors was Bob Kusmits, 152-160-pounder who capped his 10-0 dual meet record with the 165-pound Lake Erie AAU title. This gave him a three-year mark of 26-3-0.

Tennis

While the nine new courts on Jackson Field offer great promise for the future, the 3-9 record of the tennis team just evened out the total win-loss record for the tenure of Coach Beyer, at 31-31. The courts were broken in well, in a 7-2 win over Marietta, but five losses followed in short order. The last wins followed this, over Hiram and Mount Union, and the Zip netters then dropped the remaining four contests. The best season records were accumulated by two of the freshman members of the team, Dave Stroup and Bob Pyett, giving the team something to hope for in the future.

Golf

Coach Tony Laterza's success with the Akron U golf team rivals the impressive record he has built with Zip basketball teams. His AU linksmen of 1967 won six and lost four matches. Displaying great balance the sextet swept past Hiram, Ohio Wesleyan, Baldwin-Wallace, Marietta and Wooster with little trouble. Yet it was at this point the Zips hit a snag as they dropped a 17-9 contest to Oberlin. The bad run of luck continued with losses to Wooster, Kenyon and Muskingum before the defeating of Heidelberg in the season's finale.

Undaunted by numerous injuries and the loss of thirteen lettermen, Coach Tom Evan's thinclads worked their way to a very successful 9-2 season. In over sixteen years as Track coach, Evans has compiled a 98-32 win—loss record, this being his twelfth consecutive winning season.

Slogging through rain and cold winds most of the season, the Zips overwhelmed their first six opponents and saw no defeat until halfway through the season when they lost to arch-rival Mount Union. Following another loss to Baldwin-Wallace, the Zips finished the regular season by defeating Wheaton and Valparaiso in a triangular meet.

Two old school records fell this Spring when Rich Turner set a new one for the high hurdles, and Joe Cabe lowered the time for the mile run.

Cross Country

Returning to the coveted tenth in the nation position of last year proved to be more than a team which had lost its first four runners could handle, but the Zip cross country team still pulled in a 6-3 record during coach Al Hall's eleventh year on the job. Tradition proved difficult to follow, even though the harriers won the first three matches before the streak was halted by Baldwin-Wallace. They then dumped three more opponents before succumbing to potent Oberlin and Mt. Union.

Coach Hall gave credit to the tremendous efforts of the team in taking them to the NCAA Small College championships at Wheaton College; the fourth such trip in five years. But although turning in the best season times, the Zips finished below the top group.

Baseball

Having started out with a 15-0 win over Kenyon, the baseball Zips would have been thought to have begun well, and might have been kept at this high level. Such was not to be the case, however, as the rather dismal 3-16 total record showed.

This first win was followed by nine losses in a row, and the starting nine lettermen were reduced to seven, as one came out with mononucleosis and one left to accommodate his working hours. The team never stopped fighting however, and it's only fair to point out that nine of the losses were by only one run; and that the Zips kept the Wittenberg powerhouse going for thirteen innings before succumbing, 7-6.

Buchtelite

Some one once perverted the old mathematics illustration, saying that if you put an infinite number of monkeys in front of an infinite number of typewriters, they would eventually produce an issue of the Buchtelite. Truth is, the staff had far fewer typewriters and might have been glad to have an ape or two for company on those long Winter nights. The staunch little band was warmly rewarded, however, when the Associated Collegiate Press gave them the First Class rating—and campus reaction ran in favor of a new offset publication process.

Tel-Buch

Tracking down the year with camera and notepad, the Tel-Buch staff discovered just how many things Akron students can find to do with their time. Fifty books could easily have been filled with the faces and moods, activities and accomplishments; but there was only one book to put it in. So the staff sorted and selected—and fretted and figited—put everything in a big box marked "Buffalo"—and hoped for the best. Now, that's all behind them . . . and in front of you.

It was a very good year, one which began slowly and ended furiously. We began somehow in September with an influx of Freshmen, and ended by becoming a state university.

It was a very good year for the Tel-Buch, too. For the first time we have a ninety-six page color view section, some new type faces, and what we hope will be a new look for years to come.

There were some small problems to overcome, but they seem much smaller in retrospect than they appeared at first. Some ideas needed alteration to work out; some people needed persuasion to our side; some photos had to be reshot, but in the end it was done with great patience and cooperation on all sides. Many people helped greatly to make it all possible, and their cooperation was a constant amazement to me as the book was going from thought to form.

Many people helped greatly to make 1967 a very good Tel-Buch. It is not possible to give them all credit here. So instead I will just say thanks to all for a great job.

Finally, you may decide how you like what we have tried to do. If you like it, tell us; if you don't like it, come up to the office and put your own ideas into action. You may come out feeling a little like Elinor Rigby, as I did at times, but then again you may learn something in the process.

COLOPHON

The 1967 Tel Buch has been produced for The University of Akron by Wm J Keller Inc., Buffalo, New York, utilizing the Keller Velvatone Lithographic process.

Paper throughout the book is 80 lb. Velva Dull, manufactured by the S. D. Warren Paper Co. to special specifications supplied by Wm J Keller Inc. The end sheets are 65 lb. Ivory Linweave Spectra, distributed by the Alling & Cory Paper Company.

The ink throughout the book is Keller Charcoal Black, with four-color process used in thirteen forms, with separations by P.D.I. Labs, a division of Time-Life, Incorporated.

Text for pages 4-96 has been set in 14 point Optima designed by Herman Zapf for the Stempel Foundry in Frankfort, Germany. Body copy for the rest of the book is Melior, also designed by Herman Zapf. Headings throughout are 24 point Helvetica, designed by Max Miedinger for the Haas Foundry of Switzerland.

The cover is Natural Monk's Cloth, 1 x 1 weave, stamped in red and blue foil over black ink. It was designed by P. David Tan of Wm J Keller Inc. and produced by Kingsport Press of Kingsport, Tennessee.

Binding is Smythe-sewed with silk headbands by Riverside Book Binders of Rochester, New York.

Group photographs were taken by Mr. Robert Wilkey, with processing by inspection by the photographer and Hoffman Labs of New York City. Senior portraits were taken by Mrs. Esther Wolf of the A. Polsky Company Portrait Studio.

The book has been produced in an edition of 4000 copies of 304 pages. Copyright 1967, The University of Akron, Akron, Ohio.
